Re: Cracked games ever! C.S.I. Crime

Scene Investigation (came out in 1998) on G.O.D. C.S.I. Crime Scene Investigation has two play modes that you have to complete in order to finish the game. In the first, you just must go through the main story line until you reach the end. In the second, you must complete all of the non-story missions to progress further in the game. If you decide to play the game in the second mode, remember that each level is very difficult and you might want to go through the first play mode first in order to get the hang of the gameplay before attempting the second mode. A feature of the game is the ability to use the lock on (L.O.A.) function, which is a very useful feature when a situation calls for it. This function is very similar to the classic lock on (L.O.C.) function, with the difference that the L.O.A. function has the ability to track a person/object for a short time and will lock on to that object. The best use for this function is to use it to track the person/object that has the game bug while it's still in the environment and that bug will be removed from your game. Then, once the bug is gone, you can continue with the game. There are quite a number of weapons in this game that have to be used throughout the course of the game. One of the most helpful ones is the grappling hook, which you can use to climb any wall or other things. There are a few different types of grappling hooks available to you, each with different characteristics. The best of all is the teleporting hook, which has the ability to teleport you and objects back and
